

Following are the behavioral tips for Continue the Relationship:

Continue the Relationship
1.	Follow up with customers to express gratitude and ensure they are happy with their purchase or service as soon as possible but without ruining a surprise
2.	Reach out and congratulate customers on special occasions and milestone events
3.	Enrich the customer's profile after each contact
4.	Give your customers advance notice of sales, especially before an important gift-giving milestone for the customer or holiday gift-giving seasons
5.	Offer to set appointments to better serve the customers, especially during holiday seasons for cleaning and purchasing Review customer preferences and purchase history and curate a list of jewelry options and recommendations
6.	Follow through on all customer commitments
Behaviors to Avoid: - Spoiling Surprises: When following up after a purchase or service, avoid revealing any surprises associated with the purchase. Be cautious not to inadvertently ruin the experience. - Bombarding customers with emails, especially before major gift-giving occasions. Maintain a reasonable balance in communication. - Making commitments that you can't fulfill. Inconsistency can erode trust and damage the customer relationship.
